QUEEN OF DIAMONDS

By MARGARET RICHARDS

Copyright, 1905, by E. M. Doane

The usually cheery face of Mme. Fontaine, "palmist and card reader," was overcast. Even the invitingly clean little room where madame received the anxious seekers after wisdom shared in the pervading gloom. A crudely drawn hand covered with cabalistic signs had become detached from the wall and lay unheeded in one corner; the cards by whose aid coming events were evoked were pushed carelessly aside. It was evident that misfortune had fallen upon this faithful priestess of the future.

Nora McCabe had always been a wonder at "cuttin' the cards," and it was when Pat McCabe died (an event which the cards neglected to mention), leaving her with five little children, that Mme. Fontaine had sprung into existence. Having an average amount of quick-Irish wit and more than an average understanding of human nature, Nora had prospered and as Mme. Fontaine she avoided tragedy and dealt mostly in romantic and glowing generalities.

But of late the fates had not shown madame the consideration due so faithful a follower. There had been a falling off in the number of people who came to explore the misty paths of the future under her expert guidance. Four of the children were too young to do much besides consume unlimited supplies of bread and butter, and the day before Jimmy, the eldest, had been brought home with a broken leg. In short, the outlook was serious.

"Though it isn't always ye can expect to be havin' the luck," sighed Nora, stooping to pick up the hand that pointed a mutely protesting finger at her from the corner.

Quite unconscious of the radiant picture she made against her dull surrounding, a girl, tall, graceful, tailor made, came swiftly along the shabby street. If her courage almost failed her, she made no sign as she walked steadily on. All the girls had been to Mme. Fontaine. Had she not told Margaret Doane that she would be married within a year, and was not Margaret even now on her wedding journey? To be sure, she had told Louise Henderson the same thing, and there was not even an admirer in Lou's horizon; but, then, every one makes mistakes sometimes, and Louise always was hopeless. She did not really believe in it. Oh, dear, no! But she did so want to know if John really were very angry. He might have known she did not care for that stupid Captain Carstairs.

With flushed face and trembling but determined fingers she pressed the button under the card bearing the legend "Mme. Fontaine" and soon stood quaking inwardly, but outwardly serene, before the door of the modest little flat.

Eleanor Robinson was called the prettiest girl in the Westchester set, and more critical eyes than madame's would have brightened at the radiant vision she made as she entered the little room and with shining eyes bent eagerly forward over the well known table upon which madame's experienced fingers had already placed the queen of diamonds.

"That's yerself," explained the woman as she deftly shuffled the cards, "and this," laying a heart above it, "is good luck to yerself an' yer wish, an' here's an offer, an' a foine offer it is, with money too. It looks like a marriage offer, an' 'tis from"— But whom it was from must forever remain a mystery, for a shrill voice from the next room called madame, and in her anxious haste Nora overturned the little table, and the fortunes of the queen of diamonds came to an ignominious ending on the floor.

"I'm that worried I don't know what I'm doin'," said madame as she came back, and, half crying, stooped to pick up the cards. "My Jimmy has his leg broke, an' him gettin' along so nice an' Mr. Chetwood sayin' his wages should be raised this Saturday comin'."

"Mr. Chetwood!" interrupted the girl in a strained voice. And madame's keen eyes noted the warm wave of color that flooded her face.

"Yes, miss," she returned, "Mr. Chetwood, the lawyer. It was a foine place for Jimmy, an' him likin' it an' gettin' into Mr. Chetwood's ways. An' now his leg's broke, an' no knowin' when he'll git another place," she added dejectedly, and in spite of herself a tear splashed on the recovered queen.

The girl rose. "I don't believe I care to have my fortune told today," she said nervously. "I—I've changed my mind, but I shall come to see you again," she said, her blue eyes sweet with sympathy. She took a bill from her bag and laid it on the table.

"Take these, too, for Jimmy," she said, loosening the violets from her furs. And with a smile and a quick little nod she was gone.

It was hours later that a tall, broad shouldered man knocked at madame's door and inquired for Jimmy McCabe. A few minutes later John Chetwood was holding Jimmy's grimy little hand and smiling down on the little freckled face that grinned back at him sheepishly.

"We cannot do without Jimmy, Mrs. McCabe," he said pleasantly, "so I shall depend on you to send him back as soon as possible." He took some bills from his pocket and continued: "I want you to take good care of him. No! No! That's all right!" as she tried to thank him. "You may pay it back when Jimmy wins his first case, or you might tell my fortune." He laughed good humoredly, looking quizzically at the weird hands decorating the little room beyond.

Madame gasped. Her warm Irish heart was full of gratitude to the two who had been so good to her. If only she could do something for them!

He watched her with amused interest as she slowly spread out the cards on the little table.

"Ye have success to yerself an' yer wish," she began in the time worn formula, "an' there's a light woman, the queen of diamonds," she added, her eyes fastened on the cards.

John Chetwood threw back his head and laughed delightedly. "I thought it was always a dark woman," he said.

"She's tall almost as yerself," Nora went on, "an' it's like one of the saints she is, with her sweet face an' eyes as blue as—as the violets," she continued.

The quick start of surprise John Chetwood gave did not escape madame's shrewd eyes, and she went on rapidly:

"She loves ye—there's somethin' come between ye—but she loves ye. Never mind what's been, say I—go to her; she's waitin' for ye. I see the weddin' card."

John Chetwood rose abruptly. "That's a great fortune. We'll have to look into that, Mr. Jimmy," he said, but his laughter was forced, and the lines on his face deepened as he ran lightly down the stairs.

He hesitated outside the shabby little flat. She lived to the north. A few blocks to the west his friends were waiting for him. He had tried to keep away from her. It was evident she cared for Carstairs, and he would keep his disappointment to himself and let no knowledge of it shadow her. What could that woman know about it? Nothing! Queer, though, about the violets. No; of course he didn't believe it, but he squared his shoulders and turned to the north.

The Human Nature Picture.

"You can talk all you want about the beauties of landscape pictures, etc.," said a well known Kansas City art dealer, "but it is the picture with the human nature in it that attracts the crowd. Put a human nature picture in a window with landscapes and it will be the only one noticed. Not long ago I noticed a number of small boys standing around our window. They stayed so long I went out to see what was attracting them. It was a picture of two cowboys leaving a newly made grave on the prairie, one of them leading a horse with an empty saddle. Over the grave stood a dog. Finally one of the boys said, 'Come on, fellers; we gotta go home.' 'I ain't done lookin' yet,' replied another, evidently his small brother. 'Well, come on; we've gotta go. You can come back tomorrow an' see it some more,' came from the first. 'Tomorrow mornin'?' asked the smaller boy. 'Yes.' 'All right,' he said, and off they went. During the day I noticed perhaps a dozen people bringing their friends up to see that painting. The picture that 'gets next' to a person is the one the big majority of people love."—Kansas City Times.

The Critic and the Lady.

Talleyrand, the noted Frenchman, possessed wit of so high an order that it has stood well the test of time, and his jokes are still good. The author of "Juniper Hall" gives two of his sayings to Mme. de Stael.

He was a great admirer of Mme. Recamier and Mme. de Stael, the one for her beauty, the other for her wit. Mme. de Stael asked him one day if he found himself with both of them in the sea on a plank, and could only save one, which it would be, to which he replied.

"Ah! Mme. de Stael knows so many things, doubtless she knows how to swim."

When "Delphine" appeared, it was said that Mme. de Stael had described herself as Delphine and that Talleyrand was the original of Mme. de Vernon.

Meeting the authoress soon afterward, Talleyrand remarked in his most gentle tone of voice:

"I hear that both you and I appear in your new book, but disguised as women."

A Czar and a Wheelbarrow.

When Czar Peter the Great visited England in 1698 William III. hired Sayes Court, the manor house of Deptford, for use as his court and palace, near the King's dockyard, where he proposed to instruct himself in shipbuilding and to work as a shipwright. During his tenancy the czar every morning either wheeled his favorite Menzikoff or was himself wheeled in a barrow in every direction over the cherished beds, walks and borders, trampling all into one general wreck. A path was broken through Mr. Evelyn's famous and almost impregnable holly hedge, which was 400 feet long, 9 feet high and 5 feet thick. In short, he did so much damage during his three months' residence from January to April 21 that Mr. Evelyn had as compensation £150 from the government.

Insects That Love Heights.

"On peaks where even bird life ceases," said an Alpine traveler, "and the eternal snow seems to have frightened all life away, I have always found insects. No matter how high I might climb in those awful solitudes, beetles and other bugs could be seen. The beetles dwell under the rocks and in holes in the earth. Their wings are small or missing entirely, for the snow circumscribes their wanderings, and they generally stay in one place all their lives. Even on the ice fields, where there is not a single outcropping of rock, but everything is white and frozen, there is a great six legged insect of cylindrical shape and coal black in color. It seems to be as comfortable in the snow as other insects are in a flower garden."

The Wedding Cake.

The custom of having a special cake at weddings was introduced into England by the Romans. This cake, or, rather, biscuit, signified fruitfulness, hospitality and prosperity. The rice that was showered upon a bride had a similar meaning. For many centuries after the Romans left the custom was to break the biscuit over the bride's head, and then the fragments were picked up and piled before her for distribution to her friends. At the restoration Charles II. returned with a small army of French cooks, who speedily converted the ancient biscuit into a delicious piece of confectionery, iced it with sugar and gradually adorned it with emblematical devices, till it towered into the amazing structure which the luxury of later times has developed.—London Chronicle.

Hither and Yon.

"Hither and yon," inveighed against as a Yankee importation, is simply a form of "hither and yont," a good, classical Scotch expression and a most useful one, signifying "here and there and everywhere" or "all over the place." It is thus defined in Jamieson:

"Hither and yont, topsy turvy, in a state of disorder. S. yont signifies beyond, hither and yon, A. Bor., here and there. 'Noo that they're hither and yont frae ane anither it behooves a' that wish them weel to tak tent that a breach is no' opened that canna be gigit up.'" (Sir A. Wylie, 2, 20.)

Skeat does not give it, but Halliwell, who deals with English provincial dialects, gives "hither and yon, here and there."—Notes and Queries.

Origin of the Honeymoon.

The honeymoon used to last a month. The accepted notion, according to Brewer's Dictionary of Phrase and Fable, is that it must be spent away from home in order that the happy pair may get thoroughly acquainted without being victims of the curiosity of relatives and friends. It is so called from the habit of the ancient Germans of drinking "hydromel," which is a mixture of honey and water, for thirty days after marriage. Hydromel, fermented, contains enough alcohol to make a man intoxicated in short order, so that the honeymoon really was a debauch. Attila, the Hun, indulged so freely at his wedding that he died.

Curious Navy Order.

One of the most curious orders given in the royal navy is "All hands black faces," a supply of pigment for the purpose being carried by each warship. When a night surprise is intended it is not only the vessels that are made as little visible as possible. Even the faces of the men must be blackened, for when powerful night glasses are used the showing of a white face is far more palpable than any landsman would suppose.—London Telegraph.

Qualified.

"Poor Mrs. De Olde! Her eyesight is failing so fast she is of very little use in society."

"Oh, she is in great demand."

"What for?"

"All the girls want her as chaperon."—Chicago Journal.

The Sensible Thing.

Jones—Now, if you were in my shoes what do you think you would do in the matter? Brown (examining them)—Well, I certainly think I should get another pair.

The National Savings Bank.

Every dollar spent in the education of the children brings hundredfold returns to the parents, the people in the aggregate and the state.—Atlanta Constitution.

A SUDDEN TWINGE

Of pain is generally the first warning of an attack of rheumatism. It feels as if the disease were in the bones or muscles, but the real cause of rheumatism is found in impure blood. In order to cure rheumatism the blood must be cleansed of the poisonous impurities which are the cause of the disease.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been very successful in the cure of rheumatism, because it entirely cleanses the blood from the poisonous uric acid which is the cause of the disease.

"Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me of rheumatism after I had tried a dozen remedies without relief and also gone West in search of health," writes Harry Kitter, of No. 858 6th Street, Denver, Colo. "Only those who have suffered from this dread malady, know the pain and misery I endured for over five years. Whenever the weather was damp or cold my troubles were increased and my joints would be so stiff and sore that I was hardly able to move about, and often unable to dress myself. I used a number of highly recommended medicines, but they had no effect whatever on me, and I came to Colorado hoping to regain my health, but failed to obtain the relief I had hoped for. A gentleman in the house where I lived advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and in four months and a half after I began using it I was a well man, and have had no touch of it for the past seven months."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets — These tiny, sugar-coated anti-bilious granules regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Do not beget the "pill habit," but cure constipation. One or two each day for a laxative and regulator, three or four for an active cathartic. Once tried always in favor. Put up in vials; always fresh and reliable.

People Who Really Enjoy Life

WHETHER life is what we make it or what circumstances make it, whether our life here is of our own creation or predestined, it is the duty of every individual to enjoy life. To enjoy life we must first understand the natural laws of the universe and have a care that we do not transgress them. This world of ours is governed by these great laws and they must be observed. If we break them we are punished and suffer for the transgression just as surely as we would for the violation of civil law, only the former punishment is more vital. For instance, the man who is a victim of alcoholism and imposes upon his physical and mental self will suffer for it. He will undoubtedly suffer physical pain and bring upon himself such a state of ill health that he will be forced to deprive himself of all that has constituted his happiness. This is the natural reaction of his folly and the punishment of violation of natural law is more far-reaching than the civil law, which might punish by imprisonment or fine. So we know that the first essential in the enjoyment of life is not to transgress natural laws.

Another essential which really also devolves on self-control is to make the best of circumstances. One must be an optimist in this world if he would enjoy life. The true optimist is not the individual who has everything "coming his way," and is therefore happy. The true optimist is the philesophor, who will not allow himself to become dejected or cynical or dissatisfied under the most trying circumstances or at the most impending crisis. The real keynote of enjoying life lies in one's ability to ignore the disagreeable and make the most of the agreeable in this world of ours.

The poor man often, very often, gets more joy out of living than the man of wealth. A familiar example is that of the millionaire who has transgressed the natural law and who is even denied the pleasure of enjoying a good dinner. The man who has a vast fortune had his pleasure in accumulating it, and does not get pleasure in the mere possession of it. Wealth does not preclude the enjoyment of life, but it is not necessary to it. The individual who really enjoys life may be the newsboy or the blacksmith, the artist or the steel magnate. It does not depend on his position in life. It all depends upon his philosophy of life. The newsboy may dwell in a tenement and wear broken suspenders and patched trousers, yet he may whistle his way through life, accepting his lot and being glad for the smallest pleasures that may be allowed him. An apple pie, a baseball game or a ten cent show, may fill his heart with more joy than would a Poodle Dog dinner, a horse show or a box at the opera fill the heart of a youug Blingumite.

The blacksmith may live in a cottage and have a congenial wife and loving family and may sing at his forge and get as much pleasure out of life as the steel magnate. He might be getting more joy out of life, for the steel magnate may have domestic trouble or misfortunes that gold cannot assuage.

The Bohemian artist may dwell in an attic with few of the neccessities and none of the luxuries of life, and yet may take the utmost pleasure in living. He loves his art whether it be painting or music, and in the expression of his natural talents and in the enjoyment of some few good comrades he may find life worth enjoying. Although he may be poorly and unfashionably clothed and have to sit with the gallery gods when he goes to the opera, he may yet love life more than the swagger youth in the proscenium box below, who will never feel that divine thrill of music and never know the ecstacy that fills the soul of the obscure artist and makes life for him one grand sweet song.

Oh! Frisco's a city,
But it is a pity
She got in the drag-net
Of politics bad;
The story is funny,
When told rather punny,
How Abe Reuf
Must back up, it seems real sad.
You've heard the expression,
Raise the roof (with confession)
They raised A. Ruef,
But Ruef raised old cain,
So at the convention,
There will be dissension,
For Abie's lost prestige, that is quite plain.

Two million kegs of horseshoes are used annually in the United States and Canada. That's luck for somebody.

THE Berkeley woman who was fined $50 for receiving venison, probably discovered she had dear meat alright.

THE robber who stole the Idaho editor's false teeth might have at least passed the plate.

THE cannibals who ate 2,000 negroes must have liked dark meat.

General Debility

Day in and out there is that feeling of weakness that makes a burden of itself.
Food does not strengthen.
Sleep does not refresh.
It is hard to do, hard to bear, what it could be easy,—vitality is on the ebb, and the whole system suffers.
For this condition take

Hood's Sarsaparilla

It vitalizes the blood, gives vigor and tone to all the organs and functions, and is positively unequalled for all run-down or debilitated conditions.

Taken to Hospital

Mrs. Keil was taken to San Francisco Wednesday by her son, Peter Keil, where she was removed to St. Luke's hospital to undergo an operation.

Mrs. Keil has suffered ill-health for some time and her many friends trust that she will be restored to health after the operation.

Young People's Rally

A young people's rally was held at the Congregational church last night and was participated in by delegations from Santa Rosa, Napa, Glen Ellen and other adjacent towns. Reports of the Christian Endeaver and Epworth League were read. Mr. Roe officiated and among the invited guests was the president of the Christian Endeaver from Oakland. A fine program was given by the Santa Rosa delegation and musical numbers were rendered by Mrs. Claire Hope Hyde and W. Cunningham. Will Hyde presided at the organ.

After the meeting the visiting delegations were provided with a delicious repast.

The local committee having the entire affair in charge was composed of Miss Maude Fraser, Miss Florence Murphy and Miss Alice Humphreys.

Private School at Buena Vista Castle.

Dr. W. V. Schmidt, M. A., a graduate of the Universities Bonne, Germany, and of Edinburgh, will establish a private school at Buena Vista Castle. Dr. Schmidt has been late head master of the Hawthorne College of Melbourne, and assistant of Dr Ellis' famous school of music in Melbourne. Dr. Gerber of Buena Vista Castle secured the gentleman's services, first to give children staying at his resort schooling, so that their return to San Francisco would not be necessary. It is now decided to extend the benefits of the school to outsiders and courses will be given in all modern languages, classics, mathematics, music, elocution, etc. Dr. Schmidt will give a free public lecture at an early date in Union Hall, when he will introduce his new system to the people of the valley.

Ho! For the Races.

Santa Rosa track will be the centre of attraction for California admirers of the harness horse races from now until the close of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association meeting, which opens there August 16th. All the horses which are named to race at the meeting are already at this track, which is in fine condition, and a general lowering of records may be looked for. The Santa Rosa meeting will be one of the most important to be held on the Pacific Coast this year. The four divisions of the two futurity stakes, $6000 guaranteed, are to be decided and an unusually speedy lot of two and three-year-olds are eligible to start in these stakes.

In every one of the events there is a large list of entries and in every race there are three or four contending horses of about equal speed, and exciting finishes will be the order of the day. Excursion rates over the California and Northwestern and other lines will be given during the meeting, and it is expected that with the new electric road in operation, there will be a large attendance every day from all along the line.

BEAUTIFUL GIRL'S HUSBAND INSANE

Norman Hodgkinson, Who Married Alma Cutter, Committed to Asylum

The romantic marriage of beautiful Alma Cutter and Norman Hodgkinson has had a sad ending for Hodgkinson was committed to the Napa Asylum last Friday for insanity.

Alma Cutter, who is a granddaughter of General Vallejo, and was the petted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. Cutter of San Francisco, fell in love with Hodgkinson, who was comparntively poor and obscure, and the Cutters refused to listen to the idea of their daughter marrying him. Then came an elopement. The young couple quietly came up here, where a romantic marriage was solemnized and they then sent word to the bride's parents that they were wed and asked forgiveness and paternal blessing. Neither were forthcoming. The Cutters refused absolutely to recognize their daughter and her husband.

Shortly after Hodgkinson returned to San Francisco he lost his position, and having no money he and his bride had to struggle hard for an existence This preyed hard on Hodgkinson's mind and his old weakness for cigarette smoking returned. He found solace in consuming about one hundred cigarettes daily and ere long his mind began to give evidence of dementia. On one occasion he broke into his rooms, breaking up the furniture and piling everything in the middle of the floor. His conduct was such that he was examined by the Insanity Commissioners, but he was discharged. His subsequent actions, however, caused his commitment to the asylum.

His bride has been living at the Emparan place for some time, and what makes matters more pitiful, she is in a most delicate condition.

Donahue and Reclamation to be Connected by Rail

President A. W. Foster of the California Northwestern is having surveys made on his ranch at Lakeville with a view of connecting Donahue and Reclamation by rail. The distance between these two points is about eight miles, and a road between would close a gap and make connections with the Sonoma and Napa branches. This would make access to the Foster ranch much more direct.

Surveyor Preston R. Davis is also laying out many fine roads on the property.

Had Leg Fractured

A. Martin, who resides on the Petaluma road, about four miles from town, had the misfortune to break his leg Monday. While driving a large hay wagon his horses became unmanageable and threatened to upset the load of hay. Mr. Martin jumped down off the wagon, and in jumping, fell under the wheels. The wagon passed over his limb, breaking the leg below the knee.

Installation of I. O. O. F.

District Deputy Grand Master Chas. Fergurson of Santa Rosa installed the following officers of Sonoma Lodge, No. 28, I. O. O. F., recently: N. G., Harry Dunn; V. G., H. R. Dakin; R. S., James H. Albertson; Treasurer, Fred. Batto.

Appointed officers: Warden, Wm. Rambo; Conductor, J. M. Cheney; I. G., H. Castagnasso; R. & L. S. to N. G., J. D. Wagnon, A. Peterson; R. & L. S. to V. G., S. F. Bulotti, J. B. Small; R. & L. S. P. Banchero and C. E. Johnson. Three candidates were initiated.

Quite a number of our young folks will attend the Christian Endeavor rally at Sonoma Friday evening.

Frank Brown and wife of Sacramento are visiting Mrs. Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gaige of this place.

Miss Carrie Lemoine returned to San Rafael last Sunday after a two-month's visit at the home of her parents.

Percy Quein has gone to Penn's Grove, where he has the contract of erecting a number of up-to-date chicken houses.

Miss Georgie and Clarence Merlinjones will leave for Oakland on Sunday, where Miss Georgie will attend the High School.

Mrs Jas. Gorman and children returned to San Francisco Friday after a pleasant two-week's visit with her mother, Mrs Anna Behler.

John Lounibos and Mr. Forni of El Verano passed through town Tuesday on their way to Kenwood, where Mr. Lounibos' son has a contract to build a stone cellar.

Stephen Urkoff returned Monday from El Dorado county much improved in health. After attending to business affairs he will return to that place and make it his future home.

The Catholic Fair, which opened Thursday at the grounds of Dr. O'Donnell, is being well attended. The place has been beautifully decorated for the occasion by the ladies of the church with the assistance of Mrs. O'Donnell. The ladies will serve a chicken supper Saturday evening for 25c. Now any one wishing a real treat should not miss this.

GARDEN PARTY WELL ATTENDED

Benefit Fete for St. Mary's Church Held in Brilliantly Illuminated Grounds at Caliente

The garden party given last Saturday evening for the benefit of St. Mary's church at Glen Ellen was well attended. The fete was held at Agua Caliente Springs, the grounds of which were brilliantly illumined with Japanese lanterns for the occasion. Attractive booths added much to the general appearance of the grounds, and were presided over by some of the valley's fairest maids and matrons.

An interesting program had been arranged and some very clever numbers were rendered, among which was a banjo monologue.

After the program there was dancing and a social good time.

County Surveyor's Father Dies

Edwin Hull Smyth, father of County Surveyor, N. V. V. Smyth, passed away in Santa Rosa last Sunday morning. Mr. Smyth was a man widely known for the splendid life he led and was beloved for his charity and kindly deeds. He was seventy-six years of age.

Surviving the deceased is a widow and three children. The son, County Surveyor Smyth, is one of the most popular officials in the Court House and his many friends all over the county sympathize with him in the loss of so good a father.

Mitcheltree Has Resigned

Owing to the fact that Fayette Mitcheltree, assemblyman from Palo Alto and former editor in this place, has incurred the displeasure of good government exponents in Palo Alto through his support of measures which are unwholesome, his resignation as a city trustee has been tendered and accepted in the college town.

Mr. Mitcheltree is conducting a billiard and pool parlor in Palo Alto.

Gone into Show Business

Alexander Gordenker, who has been teaching school in the Philippine Islands since his graduation from the University of California, has gone into the show business. He recently purchased a moving picture outfit, paying $400 duty on it in order to bring it into the islands. He will travel about giving lectures. He will also have an assistant, who will give a vaudeville performance.

By Happy Hooligan.

Mrs. P. Flanagan and Mrs. John Baines are visiting in Santa Cruz.

Felice Clerici will add a large addition to his saloon in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Shay of Oakland visited their ranch here last Sunday.

Miss R. O'Conner has returned from Petaluma, after spending a few weeks there.

Mrs. D. Herlily of San Francisco has been spending the week at the Mullen residence.

Rumor has it that Frank Weaver will erect a large brick building on his land in this place.

Miss Mary La Torres is up from the metropolis and is the guest of Mrs. Chas. La Torres.

Miss E. Patsy and Miss A. Van Winkle of San Francisco are spending a few weeks in this place.

John Lafornaire, our tonsorial artist, contemplates the erection of a barber shop here in the near future.

A large crowd of people are still here—lots of summer fairies, and, as usual, everybody has one on a string except poor "Hooligan."

The Southern Pacific depot platform in this place is being overhauled and new planks put down which adds much to the appearance of the depot grounds.

A destructive rascal has been going around at night in this place cutting down hammocks. This gent had better have a care as detectives are on his trail.

Phil Rossi has started his new stone saloon building opposite Felice Clerici's resort. A large dance hall will be built When completed this will be the only stone building in town.

W. M. Mullen, head of the check department at the Union Iron Works, San Francisco, was in town Sunday visiting his folks. While here he did a good piece of detective work by capturing an escape from the Feeble Minded Home.

In addition to other improvements going on here Mrs. A. Nevraumont & Co. will add two hundred more rooms to El Verano Villa. Johnny Greene will also put up a shooting gallery. It's now up to Al. Weaver to paint his blacksmith shop.

Firemen Make Merry at Banquet.

The Sonoma Volunteer Fire Department held a banquet at the Toscano Hotel Wednesday evening and the affair was an enjoyable one in every respect. About thirty-six fire laddies sat down to the table, which was laden with a fine collation prepared by mine host Cuicci. After partaking of the sumptuous repast, Julius E. Poppe made some appropriate remarks and then introduced Mr. W. Cunningham, who sang, and was much applauded. He was followed by Jas. Small, who rendered "No Coon Half So Warm," in his own inimitable fashion. Martin Muldry was next introduced and indulged in some pleasing repartee. Ranald McDonell made some remarks, eulogizing the fire department and proposed a toast to each and all of the members. Henry Weber was prevailed upon to sing and by special request gave, "Die Wacht an de Rhine." S. Schocken was called upon to speak, but declined the honor. Ed Gies of Benicia responded to a toast as did also L. H. Green. Mr. Clancy of the San Francisco Fire Department, who was called upon for some remarks, made a brief excuse for his inability to do the Sonoma Fire Department justice in words. Chief Poppe followed Mr. Clancy, dwelling with great stress on the loss by fire at Glen Ellen and citing examples of the efficiency of our own department at various times. "A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight" was then sung by Jim Small and won for him much applause. Ranald McDonell was the next speaker.

"Now, with a giant's might
He heaves the ponderous thought.
Now, pours the storm of eloquence."

Mr. McDonell in a very eloquent introductory speech presented Judge Cheney, for many years the honored president of the firemen. Judge Cheney replied appropriately. James O'Rourke was the next speaker and was followed by Mr. Cunningham in monologue and a harmonica solo by George Goess. Domenico Valenti was called on for an operatic selection, but declined.

After the feast the guests repaired to the parlor, where they were entertained with musical selections by Messrs. Weber and Cunningham.

BIG IMPROVEMENTS ON JONES RANCH

Extra Force of Men Will Break up 800 or 1,000 Acres for Seeding—$3,500 Expended this Week on Horses

Joseph Keechler, manager of the Jones ranch south of town, was in San Francisco Wednesday conferring with Senator Jones in regard to extending the cultivation acreage of the ranch. It has been decided to break up 800 or 1,000 acres more of reclaimed land for seeding next year and for the purpose $3,500 was expended this week for fine horses and an extra force of men will be put to work.

The horses were purchased in the Sacramento valley and number about twenty-five or thirty. Senator Jones gave a check to the seller for the $3,500 in the presence of Mr. Keechler Wednesday.

At present there about 5,000 acres being utilized on the Jones ranch, but it is calculated to bring the entire 12,000 acre tract under cultivation in time.

Summer Visitor Injured by Horse

A summer visitor named Goldmann was seriously injured at El Verano Monday by a fractious horse. Goldmann was seated on a bench outside of Phil Rossi's place with a number of other guests, when the horse Mrs. Rossi was driving became unmanageable and started to kick and plunge. Mrs. Rossi warned the people on the bench, telling them to look out, but before Goldmann could get out of the way, the frightened animal was upon him, knocking him down and rendering him unconscious. When picked up he was found to be badly bruised and had four ribs broken. Dr. Byron was summoned and attended to his injuries, and Tuesday the unfortunate man was taken to his home in San Francisco. Goldmann is stout and is elderly, and his injuries may go hard with him.

Mrs. Rossi feels very badly over the occurrence, which was purely an accident.

School Bond Election

A special school bond election has been called in Los Guilicos district for Thursday, August 31, when the proposition of bonding the district for $1,500 to be used for an addition to the Kenwood school house will be submitted. The bonds are to be $300 each with five per cent interest and will be paid off at the rate of one each year.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL NOTES.

The High School reopened on Monday.

Fred Duhring is in Fresno on a business trip.

Miss Margaret Burke came up from San Francisco Saturday.

Miss Alma Bundschu of San Francisco is visiting at Rhinefarm.

Editor McDonell of the Sebastopol "Times" was in town Monday.

Miss Stone of Berkeley is visiting her cousins, the Murphys, on Broadway.

The L. L. Lewis' will return from a trip to the Portland Fair and Seattle today.

County Assessor Dowd and wife will soon leave on a trip to the Portland Fair.

Frank Burris has returned from a several week's visit through the great northwest.

The Champlins, of Petaluma, have returned from their camping trip to Inverness.

Mr. and Mrs. George Breitenbach came up from San Francisco Saturday evening.

Mrs. A. Bates and little grandson went down to San Francisco Thursday afternoon.

Miss Emma Eralde was married on Tuesday in Santa Rosa to Joshua Garzoli by Judge Atchinson.

Capt. and Mrs. H. E. Boyes gave a brilliant reception last night at their handsome new home west of town.

Engineer Ball will succeed the late Engineer Clarke on the S. P. run between Vallejo and Santa Rosa.

Mrs. W. H. Daly, Marion Daly and Mrs. Lewis are visiting at the beautiful Daly vineyards east of town.

Mrs. Donahue and Miss R. Donahue have gone to the Portland Fair. They sailed on the S. Paul.

Miss Bertha McGimsey went to Cloverdale on Tuesday morning, where she will remain several weeks on a vacation.

Miss Hattie Jacobs, who formerly taught school in this valley, has been visiting at Lake Tahoe. Miss Jacobs will teach in the San Francisco schools this term.

Mrs. P. H. Thompson and her daughter, Mrs. Chas. Cutter, went up to Duncan's Springs this week. Mrs. Cutter returned Wednesday evening, but her mother will remain for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Hyde have returned from a visit at Stony Point with Mrs. Hyde's sister, Mrs. Sam Woodworth. The Hydes have taken apartments in Berkeley, where they will reside permanently.

Midshipman Geo. W. Kenyon is now on his summer cruise off the coast of New England in the historic Hartford. Young Kenyon will visit his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Allen of this place, next month.

Capt. and Mrs. P. N. Stofen, Miss Meta Stofen and Mrs. George Spaulding spent Monday in Santa Rosa, the guests of the Hahmans. The Stofens entertained at cards on Saturday evening and proved, as always, delightful hosts.

Jules Clervait and his fiancee, Miss L. Costello, both of San Francisco, spent Sunday with the latter's cousin, Mrs. Robt. Hill, at Eldridge. Mr. Clervait is a man of much prominence, being the representative on this coast for the trans-Siberian railroad.

Railroad Rumor

It is being persistently rumored that the Southern Pacific and California Northwestern depots at Santa Rosa will be consolidated into a big union depot and that Glen Ellen may not be the terminus of the California Northwestern when this goes into effect. Manager Agler's retrenchment policy is going hard with the patrons of the road, for in Santa Rosa he threatens to discontinue the early morning train, making the Ukiah express do service for the traffic from the county seat. This will bring the Santa Rosa people into San Francisco about two hours later.

The God In the Hurdy Gurdy

By CASPAR JOHNSON

Copyright, 1905, by K. A. Whitehead

It was a narrow alley, running between the back yards. It was intended for the convenience of the butcher's boy and the grocer's boy and the ash man. Distinctively it was not intended for men of Pasquale Venetti's stamp. Indeed, a sign at either end announced this in no uncertain terms.

"Beggars, Peddlers and Street Musicians Keep Out," it read.

But to Pasquale Venetti warning signs in English had no terrors from the simple fact that written English was beyond his ken. Therefore as he came trundling the ancient hurdy gurdy up the street he looked into the alley saw its possibilities—the ease with which coins could be tossed from the back windows—and, forsaking the asphalt pavements, where, to use his own expression, he could "no getta de biz," he turned into the alley and, unlimbering his musical battery, sent up the quavering strains of "Lindy, Lindy, Yo' Is Ma Ladylove."

It is a hard, cold world. Pasquale ground away patiently, and whenever a face appeared at any of the windows he smiled expansively, removed his battered hat and bowed profoundly and even essayed a joyful shuffling of his feet while he turned the crank. But, despite all these blandishments, to say nothing of the appeal made by a choice assortment of selections, ranging from the classic to ragtime, no coins wrapped in white paper came jingling to his feet. To be sure, one fat cook came out to the back gate and after he had played half through the hurdy gurdy's assortment gave him a penny, and an old gentleman had raised an upper window and, with a thundered "Get out of this!" had flung him a dime. But 11 cents from such a promising alley! Pasquale resented his ill treatment and moved farther up the alley.

No better success attended him here. He whistled, he danced, he sang. He smiled his best and bowed his lowest. He tried the intermezzo and "Ma Filipino Man" with an equal lack of success. He had his labor for his pains.

He moved to the far end of the alley, with a view to quitting it. He made one final stand, however, before the back of an imposing house. With a sinking heart he sent up the jerky bars of a march from a popular light opera. The house, like all the others, was unresponsive. Then he shifted to ragtime. He decided to play through his repertory anyway. If it failed, he would go back to the asphalt pavements and try his luck somewhere downtown before a restaurant or a promising saloon.

Now, it happened that in the big, dim back parlor of the imposing house sat two young people, and a single glance showed that they were not happy.

The man sat very stiff and straight in his chair and bit his lips. The girl was seated on a low divan. Her face was flushed and her eyes glowed angrily.

"It is far too much to forgive this time," she was saying. "I have forgiven and forgiven—eternally forgiven—and now I am tired."

The man replied coldly.

"Perhaps you are right," he said in a strained voice.

"And the sooner it's over the better, now," said the girl, choking.

The man started up. Whatever remonstrance he was about to make he stifled.

"Very well," he said curtly.

The girl pulled a ring from her finger and laid it on the table beside the man. He took it without a word and put it in his pocket.

"I might say"— he began slowly.

"All you could say would make no difference," she said wearily.

The man rose and strode to the window. Pasquale was grinding away assiduously. At the sight of the man in the window he smirked and bowed and shuffled his feet. The man smiled bitterly.

"Lucky, happy devil!" he muttered.

Then he turned to the girl and drew himself up stiffly.

"I may as well say goodby," said he.

She made no reply.

"Goodby," he said again.

"Goodby," she returned evenly.

Excursions to the East at Half Fare

During the coming summer months rare opportunity will be given to visit eastern cities at a minimum expense.

Tickets will be sold by the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad at practically half the regular rates, or one fare for the round trip from California points to Denver, Omaha, Kansas City, Memphis, St. Louis, Chicago and many other points. For a slight extra cost trip may be made via Portland with a free stop-over at the Lewis and Clarke Fair.

The world-famed scenery of the Denver & Rio Grande needs no introduction to most travelers. The Canon of the Grande, the Eagle River Canon, the Canon of the Arkansas, the Black Canon of the Gunnison, the Royal Gorge, and Pike's Peak, form but a part of that glorious panorama, all of which is viewed by daylight from the new observation cars with open tops—as one passenger said, "It is just like touring in an auto."

Through sleeping cars to all principal points east.

Mr. W. J. Shotwell, General Agt., D. & R. G. R. R. Co., 625 Market street, San Francisco, will, on application, quote lowest fares, arrange sleeping car accomodations and all details of your trip, and send you free some beautifully illustrated travel books. Write today.

Herbine

Renders the bile more fluid and thus helps the blood to flow; it affords prompt relief from biliousness, indigestion, sick and nervous headaches, and over indulgence in food and drink. G. L. Caldwell, Act. M. K. and T. R. R., Checotah, Ind. Ter., writes, April 18, 1903: "I was sick for over two years with enlargement of the liver and spleen. The doctors did me no good, and I had given up all hope of being cured, when my druggist advised me to use Herbine. It has made me sound and well." 50c. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

The Santa Rosa race meet begins August 16th.

Rheumatism

When pains or irritation exist on any part of the body, the application of Ballard's Snow Liniment gives prompt relief. E. W. Sullivan, Prop. Sullivan House, El Reno, O. T., writes, June 6, 1902: "I take pleasure in recommending Ballard's Snow Liniment to all who are afflicted with rheumatism. It is the only remedy I have found that gives immediate relief." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

Jimmie Gardener knocked Turner out in the eleventh round last Friday.

Nothing on the Market Equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarhoea Remedy.

This fact is well known to druggists everywhere, and nine out of ten will give their customers this preparation when the best is asked for. Mr. Obe Witmer, a prominent druggist of Joplin, Mo., in a circular to his customers, says: "There is nothing on the market in the way of patent medicine which equals Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. We sell and recommend this preparation." For sale by Shoults & Co.

The Del Monte Hotel at Camp Meeker was destroyed by fire Sunday morning.

Stop That Cough

When a cough, a tickling or an irritation in the throat makes you feel uncomfortable take Ballard's Horehound Syrup. Don't wait until the disease has gone beyond control. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Anderson, 354 West 5th St., Salt Lake City, Utah, write, "We think Ballard's Horehound Syrup the best medicine for coughs and colds. We have used it for several years; it always gives immediate relief, is very pleasant and gives perfect satisfaction." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

The fever in the south is causing many deaths.

A Warning to Mothers

Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old-fashioned castor oil, and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to gripe. If this does not check the bowels give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incipiency and all danger avoided. The castor oil and this remedy should be procured at once and kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treament known and may be relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum. For sale by Shoults & Co.

Prune pickers are in demand at the present time.

Cures Sciatica.

Rev. W. L. Riley, L. L. D., Cuba, New York, writes: "After fifteen days of excruciating pain from sciatic rheumatism, under various treatments, I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, the first application giving my first relief and the second entire relief. I can give it unqualified recommendation. 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

The Land of Horseradish.

It almost makes the eyes water to read of the village of Baiersdorf, in Bavaria, which is celebrated for producing the finest horseradish in Europe. On an area of moist ground, in the valley of the river Regnitz, covering 1,235 acres, that titillating plant is practically the only thing raised, and the annual yield amounts to about 6,660,000 pounds. Horseradish requires a great deal of attention from the cultivator, for in mid-summer the soil must be removed from the stems and the side roots rubbed off with a soft cloth, after which the stems are buried again. The plants spring up in March from the end roots, left in the soil the previous autumn, when the upper stems are cut off and packed in barrels for shipment.

Freaks of Lightning.

A noted astronomer and scientist in a recent lecture in Paris gave an account of some of the freaks of lightning. These freaks, however, he affirmed, were determined by causes which we have yet to learn. Sometimes it kills sometimes it merely injures and sometimes it seems to be frolicking in a way which gives rise to the hypothesis that "it is a thought which, instead of being attached to a brain, is attached to an electric current." Sometimes it plays the physician, as in the instance at Romaines, France, when it struck a man who had not been able to walk without a crutch on account of rheumatism. After the shock the rheumatism disappeared.

Cholera and Diarrhoea—A Remedy that is Prompt and Efficient.

The prompt results produced by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy together with its pleasant taste have won for it a place in many households. Mr. W. T. Taylor, a merchant of Winslow, Ala., writes: "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy myself and also with men on my place, for diarrhoea and colic and it always gives relief promptly and pleasantly.
